

Congratulations on your book!

Your long effort and persistence in writing, in addition to its completion, are great reasons to celebrate. Please read all the information below carefully. It provides important information on what we look for in local books and how to submit your book successfully for consideration. Because we aim to support our local community, we strongly favor books written by our store patrons, who have deep ties to the community and want to continue to have an independent bookstore in Lynchburg.

We receive so many local author books to review throughout the year that several weeks, to a few months, may pass before you hear from us with a decision on stocking your book. Local authors are responsible for publicizing their book and are expected to contact area organizations, newspapers and other media outlets.

To be considered for stocking, the book must be

- professionally published
- published within the last 24 months
- printed with an ISBN
- free of spelling and punctuation errors
- free of typographical errors, and
- author website must link to www.givensbooks.com and promotional materials must direct customers to Givens Books for purchase.

We stock self-published books on consignment only, with 60% of retail price paid for any copies that Givens sells. Throughout the year we review the consignment book sales, then notify authors of those titles that have not sold well, asking that they pick up unsold copies. Copies not picked up will be donated.

Self-published books are held to many of the same criteria as the books above, including that they be

- published within the last 24 months
- printed with an ISBN
- free of spelling and punctuation errors
- free of typographical errors, and
- author website must link to www.givensbooks.com and promotional materials must direct customers to Givens Books for purchase.

If your book meets either set of criteria, you are a store patron or have deep and current ties to the community, and you would like to submit your book, please complete both sides of this form and submit it with a non-returnable copy of your book. You may also mail the packet to us.
